

PANELIST BIOGRAPHY

BILL MANASSERO

Podcaster & CRE Investor
Old Dawg's REI Network

Bill Manassero (pronounced "MANNA+ SARROW") is the host and top dog of The Old Dawg's REI Network, a blog and weekly podcast for people 50 years and older who are using real estate investing as a means to fund their retirement years and create a legacy for their children and grandchildren.

Bill's goal is to own/control 1,000 units/doors in less than 6 years. Prior to forming the Old Dawg's REI Network, Bill and his family were missionaries to orphaned, abandoned and at-risk children living on the streets of Port-au-Prince Haiti.

Prior to Haiti, he was a professional musician and, prior to that spent over 20 years in business on the corporate and entrepreneur side. A few highlights of his career include meeting Ronald Reagan, working with Jimmy Stewart, being interviewed by Oprah Winfrey and having CNN produce a documentary on his work in Haiti.

Topics he covers:

Real Estate Investing for Seniors

10 Reasons Why Real Estate is the Best Investment for Retires

Thriving, Not Just Surviving in Your Retirement

Long-Distance Investing